

Participation of residents in public life

Public consultations* in 2024

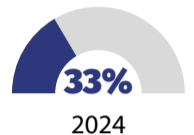

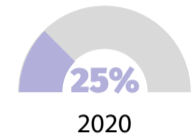

Civil society is the voluntary activity of people, independent of the state, through which they influence public affairs, defend their interests and build social trust.

In practice, this includes tools that allow residents to truly influence local decisions: public consultations, legislative initiatives, local initiatives, and participatory budgeting.

Public consultations were held in 217 gminas.

Residents initiated public consultations in 5 gminas.

In 2024, every third public consultation concerned spatial order and real estate management (in 2020, every fourth).

Gminas in which at least one citizen legislative initiative was submitted

2020

9

Dębe Wielkie, Gzy, Jabłonna, Michałowice, Mława, Platerów, Podkowa Leśna, Pruszków, Stare Babice

2024

Jabłonna Lacka, Lesznowola, Małkinia Górna, m. Radom, m.st. Warszawa, Przysucha, Solec nad Wisłą, Tłuszcz, Wolanów

Consultative bodies* in the gmina

Gmina seniors council

Gmina youth council

Local initiative*

Gminas where applications were submitted under the local initiative

Submitted applications

Submitted contracts

Citizens' budget

Gminas that have a separate budget allocation for the citizens' budget

Projects submitted under the citizens' budget per 100 thousand residents

Voters in gminas on projects per 100 thousand residents

Communication between gmina authorities and residents*

Gminas in which the agenda of gmina council meetings included a permanent item where every resident of the gmina could speak

Average number of gmina residents who took the floor in the debate on the report on the state of the gmina for the previous year

Gminas that independently or commissioned educational and promotional activities aimed at developing residents' self-governance and strengthening public participation

Strong civic society = strong democracy

*Including districts of Warszawa.

When publishing Statistical Office data, please indicate the source.